No Hint In Baby Kidnap Case Minton Retires From Supreme Court

Investigators Break Up Long Huddle

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 7 (AP) — Top investigators broke up a long huddle in the tragic Ruotolo baby case today without giving the slightest hint of how close they were to a solution.

"The investigation is continuing," is all State's Atty. Abraham S. Ullman would say after a three-hour conference in the New Haven County Courthouse.

His office became the center of operations with the discovery of the body of 6-week-old Cynthia Ruotolo yesterday near a culvert in Lake Whitney. She had been stuffed in a plastic bag weighted with a rock.

The lake is about four miles from here and about one mile from the big Hamden department store where Cynthia's carriage was parked when she disappeared Saturday.

The baby's mother, 32-year-old Eleanor, told police she had left Cynthia there while she shopped in the store with a neighbor.

If investigators had any suspects in mind, they weren't saying so. "Anybody connected with the case is a suspect," said Police Chief Harry H. Barrows of Hamden as he left Ullman's office.

Present at the conference also were state police Capt. Victor Clarke and New Haven County Coroner James J. Corrigan.

The FBI officially stepped out of the case late last night. It did so, it explained, because of the absence of any apparent interstate angles.

One of Corrigan's first acts after the conference was to release Cynthia's body so her parents could proceed with the funeral arrangements.

The conference in Ullman's office, said Corrigan, "simply means the investigation is going forward."

Beyond that, he would say nothing except that his official inquiry was now under way and that he already had begun taking testimony in the case.

Barrows told newsmen that the conference was devoted chiefly to taking another look at the facts already known to police and checking "different phases" of the case.

Late this afternoon, Mrs. Ruotolo and her two children left in an automobile for an unannounced destination, presumably a friend's house for some privacy.

Earlier, Hamden detectives had been removing bedclothing, a crib and golf clubs from the Ruotolo home, which were whisked away in a private car and a small truck.

37 Injured In Crash
WARSAW, Ind., Sept. 7 (AP) — Thirty-seven persons were injured tonight as nine cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad's Chicago-to-New York Trail Blazer left the track at the east edge of Warsaw.

None of the injured was listed in serious condition. Twenty-four were dismissed after treatment, and 13 remained in hospitals.

Railroad spokesmen said the cause of the wreck was not determined. State police said a broken journal from a hot box was thought to have caused it.

Allentown Veteran Dies
ALLENTOWN, Sept. 7 (AP) — A. Hewitt Kahn, 65, local textile executive and for 10 years editor of the United States Army Ambulance Corps USAAC national publication, died yesterday at his home here.

Kahn was born in Allentown, Pa., and served in the U.S. Army during World War I. He was a member of the Allentown Chapter of the American Legion and the Allentown Chapter of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

California Adlai's Major Aim

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson is figuring on one and perhaps two more political safaris to California because his advisers believe that if he can carry that pivotal state he can win the election.

As one of the Democratic presidential nominee's top consultants put it: "If we can take California, we're in. I think we can."

The theory is that if Stevenson has enough power to carry the Golden Bear state, after losing it by 700,000 votes in 1951, he has enough to sweep up sufficient other states to topple President Eisenhower in November.

Air Trips

Among the big states, Democratic strategists like Stevenson's chances in Pennsylvania better than in California. They conceded he might lose his home state, Illinois.

The importance Stevenson headquarters attaches to California was underscored by the fact that the nominee took the better part of three days this week just for an aerial expedition to Los Angeles and San Francisco. He flew back to Chicago last night.

This was a let-up day for the Stevenson campaign — a day for working on speeches but not delivering any. Tomorrow the candidate will be on his way again, to Springfield, Ill., the Ohio Democratic convention at Columbus, and then to New York.

Stevenson did get out a statement today jumping on the Eisenhower administration for what he called failure to meet the school crisis. The Democratic party, he said, has a good program for dealing with such things as the shortage of schools and teachers.

"I think," he said, "this is one of the major issues of the campaign, and we are going to hit it often and hard. It is not only the future of our children that is at stake, it is the future of America itself."

He said more children than ever are packed into crowded classes or half-time ones, a 500,000 shortage of classrooms is the biggest yet, the teacher shortage probably is even more serious than the classroom shortage, and "one child in five is going to school in a fire trap."

The Democratic party platform calls for federal financial aid in building schools and for the training of more teachers, particularly in the scientific and technical fields.

The pause in Democratic campaigning today gave the strategists a chance to assess the political outlook two months ahead of the election and in advance of the formal start of the opposition campaign next week.

The way they see things in the five big-vote states, those with 25 or more electoral votes, the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket can take California and Pennsylvania, drop New York, Illinois and Ohio, and still lick the Eisenhower-Nixon team.

This reasoning is based on a contention that the South and border states will be solidly Democratic once more, although it will take some work to get Florida back from the GOP.

Associates

Stevenson's associates say they like party prospects in Pennsylvania because young blood has been infused into the leadership while experienced veterans have been retained. And they say there are other factors:

George M. Leader was elected governor in 1954 by about the same 70,000-vote margin by which the Democrats lost the presidential election in Pennsylvania in 1952.

The Democrats have 40,000 or 50,000 state patronage jobs. Former Mayor Joseph Clark of Philadelphia is running for the Senate against Republican James Duff and is regarded as adding strength to the ticket. Campaign contributions reportedly are encouraging.

Health Given As Reason For Move

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Justice Sherman Minton, plagued by pernicious anemia and a failing memory, announced today he was retiring from the Supreme Court Oct. 15.

He told newsmen he no longer feels able "to do the kind of work this position demands."

Minton, almost 66, has been a member of the high court since 1949 and has been identified with what has come to be known as the court's five-man conservative bloc.

His retirement will give President Eisenhower the opportunity to make his third appointment to the supreme tribunal. There was immediate speculation about the nomination.

The names of Atty. Gen. Brownell and former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York were first mentioned as possibilities, but informed government sources indicated there was doubt that either would get the President's nod.

A third name mentioned was that of Stanley N. Barnes, former chief of the Antitrust Division of the Justice Department and now a judge on the U.S. Circuit Court bench in San Francisco.

Other names will be heard before Minton steps down, but those with actual experience as judges in lower courts may get first consideration by the President.

Conference
At a news conference Oct. 28, 1954, Eisenhower said that in the average case—the normal case—he thought it would be good practice to nominate for the Supreme Court judges who have had real experience in lower courts.

In January 1955, the President nominated Justice John M. Harlan and in September 1953, he named Chief Justice Earl Warren. Harlan went to the high tribunal from a judgeship on the U.S. Circuit Court bench in New York.

Another Republican serving in the Supreme Court, Justice Burton, was nominated by President Truman.

Minton was a Truman appointee, as was Justice Clark. Four of President Roosevelt's appointees remain: Justices Black, Reed, Frankfurter and Douglas. Black, Reed and Frankfurter, all over 70, could retire now and get full pay of $35,000 a year, as Minton will.

Minton announced his retirement at the Supreme Court Building after sending a letter to Eisenhower. Later the justice met newsmen in his office.

"I have pernicious anemia and there is no cure for it," he said. "There are treatments, but no real cure. It causes a weakening and a circulatory condition in my legs. It speeds up senility. There are times when I might fall if I had no cane handy."

The jurist also complained of loss of memory, adding — "And that's something you need in this business."

Johnny Dio' Indicted For Conspiracy
NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Labor racketeer John (Johnny Dio) Dioguardi today was indicted for conspiracy to obstruct justice.

He had been named by the FBI as the man who masterminded the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel.

Six Other
Six other persons also were indicted along with Dioguardi by a federal grand jury. Dioguardi's brother, Thomas, originally accused by the FBI of being in on the acid attack, was not indicted.

An assistant U. S. attorney said the charges against Thomas Dioguardi would be dismissed.

Navy Balloon Sets Record
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Navy announced late today that one of its research balloons had reached an altitude of 129,000 feet "a new world record," and was still going up.

The Navy was informed of the record by the University of Minnesota which built the balloon under contract for the Navy.

Dauphin County District Attorney To Make Recommendation On Turnpike Investigation
HARRISBURG, Sept. 7 (AP)—Dist. Atty. Huethe F. Dowling of Dauphin County disclosed today he would make his recommendation Monday on whether a grand jury investigation would take place on operations of the Pennsylvania Turnpike under Republican control.

Dowling said his report, prepared after a conference with his staff during the day, will be given to the full four-member Dauphin County bench.

The court directed Dowling to prepare his recommendation after Atty. Gen. Cohen petitioned for a grand jury investigation and listed charges of conspiracy, bribery and corrupt practices against several former and present members and employees of the Turnpike Commission.

They included Thomas J. Evans, former chairman, and James F. Torrance, a Republican hold-over on the five-man agency now controlled by the Democrats.

Party Official Dies
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Sept. 7 (AP)—Sen. Roberto Berro, physician and a leader of the Horrerista party, died here today. He was 70. Sen. Berro formerly was a member of the National Council of Government, the administrative branch of Uruguay's government.

Scranton Man Wounded Fatally
SCRANTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Henry A. Schreiber, 60, a former tax collector and prominent citizen in the Scranton area, was wounded fatally today by what the coroner said was an accidental discharge of a pistol.

Dr. Paul E. Kubasko, coroner, issued a verdict of accidental death. Police said Schreiber apparently was cleaning the pistol when it went off accidentally.

Angry Mob Runs Reporters From Kentucky Town

By The Associated Press

A ROWDY, angry mob in the little western Kentucky coal-mining settlement of Clay ran newspapermen out of town Friday in the midst of a school segregation dispute seething from Maryland to Texas.

At least five reporters and cameramen were forced out of Clay when they sought to reach a racial demonstration at an elementary school where two Negro children tried to enroll Thursday.

One who remained, Don Armstrong of the Henderson (Ky.) Gleaner-Journal, asked his managing editor by telephone later, "Get me help." He spoke in a low voice and "sounded worried," said the managing editor, Ed Greenwald.

The newsmen were threatened with death and an attempt was made to upset the auto of one by a mob of more than 100, members of which said they were armed. The newsmen were escorted out of town by motorcycles.

Defiance
The mob also shouted defiance of any attempt to bring in the National Guard or state police, saying angrily, "We can take care of them."

AP staffer George Hackett later reached Clay and reported Armstrong also had left and other newsmen reported missing were safe.

Clay is only 11 miles from Sturgis, Ky., where mob pressure kept nine Negroes away from school Friday despite a two-day vigil of militiamen and police to "preserve peace and order." More guardsmen were called in and the way cleared to proclaim martial law is necessary in a showdown at Sturgis Monday. The militia had escorted the Negroes to school with drawn bayonets Thursday.

Mob pressure also blocked efforts to three Negroes to register at the Texarkana (Tex.) Junior College. About 50 white persons, mostly students, formed a "picket line" to turn away the three, two boys and a girl.

Quiet
Relative quiet prevailed at Clinton, in eastern Tennessee, where soldiers first were used to allow integration. Twelve Negroes continued to attend school there and a boycott by white students appeared to be gradually losing ground.

The National Guard force was reduced from 633 to a little more than 100, emphasizing a prevailing question of what will happen when all are withdrawn.

At Annapolis, Md., Circuit Judge Benjamin Michaelson refused a plea of segregationist George Washington Williams, a States Rights, that Anne Arundel County be forced to provide separate schools for whites and Negroes.

"This court," said Michaelson, "does not feel it has any right to overrule the Supreme Court of the United States."

Court Upholds Conviction Of Returnee From Red Camp
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—The U.S. Court of Military Appeals upheld today the conviction of Claude J. Batchelor of Kermitt, Tex., on charges of helping the Communists while a prisoner of war in Korea.

Batchelor, 25-year-old former infantry corporal, was convicted by an Army court-martial in 1954. He is serving a 20-year prison term. He also was sentenced to a dishonorable discharge and forfeiture of pay and allowances.

The appeals court is the last resort in military cases. Batchelor's lawyer, Joel W. Westbrook, said in San Antonio, Tex., that the court did not grant review of what he called the two most important issues of the case — "brainwashing and due process of law."

Father Of 'Spectaculars' Quits NBC
NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Sylvester L. (Pat) Weaver, dynamic father of "spectaculars" and other new television concepts, resigned today as board chairman of the National Broadcasting Co.

A well-informed source within the industry said, "It was a case of an organization and an individual wanting to go separate ways."

Another source, a "personal friend" of the outgoing NBC chief, said it was an "amicable parting."

The network shed no light on the reasons for the parting.

Closed Circuit
In a closed circuit radio broadcast to NBC employees across the country, network President Robert W. Sarnoff, said only:

"I must make an announcement to you which I do with personal regret. At the board of directors meeting today, Pat Weaver, chairman of the board, submitted his resignation, effective today, and it was accepted by the board."

"I know that all of you join me in extending to Pat our best wishes for the future."

The tall, sandy-haired Weaver, whose predilection for long, stirring memos is almost a legend in the industry, would say little about his resignation. In a telephone interview, he noted:

"My record couldn't be clearer. I leave it to the people in the business to evaluate why I left."

Beyond that he declined to discuss the past, and on the future said, "I'll be in the future of TV and radio in some major way. My plans right now are indefinite. I'm not looking for a job though there have been several offers."

For some time there had been rumors of friction between Weaver and Sarnoff, who succeeded Weaver as network president and "chief executive officer" in December 1955. The president is the son of David Sarnoff, board chairman of the Radio Corp. of America, NBC's parent company.

RELEASED under a $1,000 peace bond, an unidentified man kicks a portable movie light in Clinton, Tenn. One of the 15 men arrested in a riot that resulted from the shooting of a white man by a Negro, he objected to picture taking as he and the others were released from jail. National Guardsmen were reportedly relaxing restrictions in the town as violence over integration in the public school died down.

WHAT'S COOKING?

It's fun to mix a lot of things and wonder how they'll "turn out." It's fun until you try to eat your own "exter-special" muffins. Then you wish you had used Mommy's old-fashioned recipe.

Thousands of parents are sharing today the disillusionment that is in store for our little cook—but on a more bitter scale. As juvenile offenders are herded into our police stations, courts and reformatories, heart-broken parents watch and wonder. What did they do wrong? Why didn't Johnny turn out to be a boy they could be proud of?

When you try to answer those questions you can't help but recall the old-fashioned recipe for raising children. It calls for generous portions of prayer, family worship, Church attendance. But more than eight million children are growing up today without ANY religious training.

When the church bells ring on Sunday morning, remember; the future of our nation, the character of our children, is at stake.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

State Commended For Rushing Plans On Permanent Flood Control System

An announcement that the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters is planning to construct permanent flood control installations in and near Stroudsburg comes as good news to people living along Broadheads, McMichaels and Pocono Creeks.

The department secretary, Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, said he hoped to get the $1,750,000 project under way within a year. He made the statement with the support and in the presence of Gov. George M. Leader during an official inspection of local stream clearance projects.

In explaining the reason for state action in the matter, Dr. Goddard said it will take upwards of three years for Congress to appropriate federal funds to finance the work. In the meantime, no actual construction work can be started unless the state takes the initiative.

He expressed confidence the Corps of Army Engineers will be able to justify federal participation, but emphasized this does not mean the state will have to wait until federal funds were made available.

Parallel surveys authorized by the Corps of Engineers and the Department of Forests and Waters reached the same conclusion: that a series of dams or reservoirs on streams above the Stroudsburgs would be too costly to build. Goddard placed the cost of such flood protection at $11,000,000.

From an economic standpoint, he said, the ideal system would be a series of dikes and levees. Both banks of the Broadheads would be lined with levees, he added, with pumping stations on each side. Levees along McMichaels Creek and possibly a concrete channel in Pocono Creek also are being planned, Goddard disclosed.

While the department concentrates on the local program, the Corps of Engineers will be able to concern itself chiefly with the planning of a flood control and water storage reservoir on the Delaware River, preferably at Tocks Island.

The state has already spent or earmarked $1,081,000 for stream clearance work in Monroe, Pike and Wayne Counties. The money comes out of the special flood rehabilitation fund set up by the General Assembly in 1955 when it approved a one-cent-a-pack tax on cigarettes. Local flood control projects, other than the major levee program, also will be financed out of the special fund.

State officials are to be commended for going ahead with the planning of flood protection along the Broadheads, McMichaels and Pocono Creeks. If their optimism in scheduling the start of work within a year proves justified, we can expect to have accomplished something even before authorization of federal funds could be obtained.

We trust that officialdom's interest in the Poconos region will not wane as long as one vulnerable area remains without flood protection of some kind. Last August's experience taught us that disaster strikes without warning and where least expected. We dare not be caught unprepared a second time.

Barber Shops Take Steps To Meet Problem Of Juvenile Delinquency

The Lancaster Chapter of the Master Barbers Assn. can go to the head of the class when it comes to keeping little shavers moving along the straight and narrow path.

The association has adopted a pledge dedicated to keeping youngsters in barber chairs and out of electric chairs.

The pledge includes the removal from the barber shops of any reading matter that would warp the youngsters' minds; the removal of suggestive calendars; the watching of their language when the kids are around; the refusal to spread information about gambling and other vices and discouraging the use of the barber shop as a club house.

Everyone concerned with the problem of juvenile delinquency should welcome this newest plan of attack on the problem.

This plan shouldn't have an adverse effect on us adult delinquents either.

West So Anxious For Peace That It Risks Dangers Of Hitler-Like Dictator Nasser

Dr. Mohamed Ali Nasseir, Egyptian Minister of Commerce, has laid down the law:

"It is an accepted principle that public utilities are either directly administered by the State or indirectly by way of a concession and that is always the right of the State to make the concession because it is a grant from it whether this is specifically mentioned in the concession or not. It is the public interest which determines the way the State chooses to realize the maximum measure of public interest. For the relationship between he who grants the concession and he who utilizes it are based on the principles of the administrative law which is a branch of the general law."

No such principle has ever been accepted except in the Communist countries where private property is only recognized as a benefaction from the government and is of such a limited character that it plays a small part in the total economy of the nation. It is a boon rather than a right. The word, concession, as Dr. Nasseir employs it, is hardly understandable in the Western world where public utilities are usually operated by private companies which may receive certain benefits from the state, as, for instance, a railroad gets a right of way. But it is not regarded as within the authority of the state to confiscate private property except by due process of the law, whereupon the occupation is not confiscation but the end result of a judicial process. Certainly whimsical and unilateral confiscation is intolerable in a free society.

But then, Egypt is not a free society. It is as much a dictatorship as Hitler or Stalin produced but each dictatorship as each free society operates differently according to the traditions of the people.

After all, Egypt has not been an independent country for long and would not have been independent at all if the Allies, including Nasser's enemy, the British, had not defeated the Turks in World War I. From 1917 until 1914, the Turks held Egypt as a conquered province. The British established a protectorate over Egypt in 1914 with the object of preventing a German conquest. This protectorate was terminated in 1922. As a matter of historic fact, all the Arab countries which are now throwing their weight about were Turkish provinces. It is true that some of the Arabs assisted General Allenby in his war on the Turks and in the achievement of the Allied victory, but that assistance was amply compensated for not only by independence but also by economic assistance of the greatest value in the development of their countries. And in that economic development, the United States played a great role.

To a dictator like Nasser, seeking to build an empire, history is not important. He succeeded in abolishing the monarchy; he got rid of his predecessor, Nagueib, who established the Egyptian Republic; he seized power by a coup d'etat, and he managed to place himself at the head of the Arab powers. He has now seized the Suez Canal Company and he is on his way. Maybe this time, he will have to back down somewhat but if he is permitted to continue he will as surely involve the world in war as Hitler did in World War II because his ambitions are personal and limitless.

One would imagine that after the experience with Mussolini and Hitler, the world would have recognized Nasser for what he is, but the West particularly is so anxious for peace that it risks the dangers of another insatiable dictator. After all, the British gave Hitler time after Munich. Nasser is an Arabic imitator of Hitler and pursues the pattern of his prototype.

The question may be asked: What can be done about war? Maybe in this year 1956 there is no answer to that question. And if there is no answer, Nasser has chosen a good year in which to pursue his course. The quick British and French response and the landing of troops at Cyprus, only 250 miles from Cairo, is a good sign, but the United States does not want to risk too much, first because it is a Presidential election year and secondly because our economic interests in the Arabic world are great—but if Dr. Nasseir's law stands, what are those interests really worth? They are already in danger in at least nine Arab countries.

The Once Over

With the week-end auto-trip season far from over, and with its dangers emphasized by figures on the Labor Day accidents, T. S. A. reviews the Watters, a man of eminent intelligence, reveals that he has put into practice a routine under which he never leaves home and yet finds the atmosphere and mood of the motor week-enders. Without any danger whatever, Watters "enjoys" all the sensations of life on the thruways, by staying home and adopting the following routine:

(1) Employing a fellow to yell "Gwan, ya big bum. Where did you learn to drive?" every few minutes all through the week-end; (2) changing the household furnishings around so he will never be sure just where he is; (3) playing a recording of the Battle of the Bulge; (4) hitting himself on the head with a claw-hammer and throwing sand in his own eyes; (5) sticking his head out the window (through the glass) and bellowing "Move over, ya dope!" in a defiance of all fellow creatures.

He also puts a stop sign over every door and a blinker in the bathroom. He eats nothing but sandwiches with ants in them during the entire week-end and hurls himself against a wall now and then, simulating the sensation obtained when a car ahead stops abruptly. "It's all very wonderful," he declares, "I don't use any oil or gas, save motel, restaurant and garage bills and don't see a cop all week-end. And when my wife, through habit, asks now and then, 'Are you sure we are on the right road?' I can always say, 'If we ain't, it's something you'll have to take up with the landlord.'" autumn and winter women's hats, we think it possible the Russian lady discusser could be pardoned for taking those London bonnets. It could be she merely wanted to see how far she could throw them. Charles Laughton will enunciate the Ed Sullivan show introducing Elvis Presley. ("Mutiny on the Bumpers"?) We trust there will be no confusion during which Charles will do a rock 'n' roll while Elvis plays Captain Bligh and yells "Captain Christian, come here!" while doing a contortionist act. Having Laughton introduce Presley is like having Johnny Ray introduced by the Archbishop of Canterbury. A famed woman tennis star and her husband have parted three weeks after the wedding. A double fault, we would say. Just a switch from one court to another. The "Surgeon" won a Belmont race at $39.90. Shudda Haddim got a tip, but says it was not from the right "operator." Harry Truman, whose classification of President Eisenhower and his cabinet as a bunch of racketeers could be the costliest boner in many years.

Judging from some of the 1956

My New York —by Mel Heimer

New York—Toni Romer, a dark-haired actress who must be tired by now of people telling her she has an expressive face—which she has—may well be the most unusual woman in Manhattan.

Not only has she shuttled back and forth between the Phil Silvers TV show and the Shakespearean festival in Stratford, Conn., but she continues to check hats at the Fisherman's Net and the Monsignore—and when you ask her if she's a good actress, she doesn't say demurely, "Oh, that's not for me to say," but bluntly says, "Yes."

Toni's a Yonkers, N. Y., girl who grew up in the mid-west, majored in philosophy at the University of Chicago and hit New York around eight years ago. She remembers that she once played with an art-conscious off-Michigan boulevard theatrical group who gave her a "sort of strip-tease" role once, so she used to sit in the fourth row at a Chicago burlesque house, books under her arm and braces on her teeth, studying the strippers' technique. "I frightened away all the men down front," she says, "but some of the atmosphere rubbed off on me. The other night after my Shakespeare work, a man came up to me backstage and said, 'Say—didn't I once see you in Minsky's in Newark?'"

An actress who can do comedy, rather than a comedienne, Toni worked her way along carefully in radio and TV until she got the chance to be a "screamer" on the Silvers show. A screamer? "You know, a woman who just screams loudly," she says. "After I got talking with Nat Hiken, who produces the show, I found myself with a bigger job, as the wife to the late Harry Clark. Now that Harry's dead, I don't know what future, if any, I'll have with Nat and Phil."

When John Houseman, who directs the Shakespeare festival in Connecticut, was fashioning his repertory company for this summer, the candid Miss Romer—who has a consuming, stage-struck itch to play really deep, dark parts—wrote him a letter, specifically outlining her dazzling qualifications. "It's to your advantage to hire me," she concluded firmly. Seven hours after he got the letter, she was talking to Houseman about the fat part of Constance in Measure for Measure.

The bewildered Houseman said she couldn't play Constance; Mildred Dunnock already had the role. "Oh, that's all right," Toni said airily. "I'll take another part, then." And she did. She became Mistress Overdone, who has had nine husbands, and the critics loved her. The festival people are playing her plays—Measure, The Taming of the Shrew and King John—to the Phoenix theater in January and Miss R. should be a treat to see.

Toni feels strongly that America is the best place and Americans the best actors to do Shakespeare. "We have all the gusto and irreverence that his plays need," she says. "Look at King John—it's a drama about politicians. I was watching the Republican and Democratic conventions on TV and I thought, gee, what a cast of actors for John. There are a couple of roles in the three Shakespeare plays we've been doing that Phil Silvers could play perfectly. There's more of a link between his kind of work and classical plays than you would think."

As for the hat-checking—between engagements, she still does it. "For three reasons," she outlines. "One, the money helps pay the rent. Two, sitting around in a restaurant watching people is a great way to learn acting. Three, a hat-check girl gets a lot of opportunity to loaf around and study and read. And I'm so fond of all my regular customers at the Fisherman's Net. Why, when I played in Richard III on one TV show, the customers had a TV set put into the restaurant just to see me. How can you beat that?"

You can't, Miss Romer, a warm and intelligent woman, will go far. But I think that man backstage at Stratford had her wrong. I can't remember her being at Minsky's in Newark.

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

There's a tricky three-par hole at Pebble Beach, Calif., that drives even golf experts to distraction. A tongue of the Pacific Ocean surges in between the tee and the green, and on a well-directed 200-yard drive can keep a player out of serious trouble.

Almost as disastrous as a drive into the briny is a hook shot on to the beach below the green. Bing Crosby found his ball there one windy day, and wasted seven shots trying to loft it up on to the green. The eighth try almost made it, but then the ball began rolling back, picked up speed, and hit Bing in the stomach.

Tossing his wedge to the caddy Bing said, "That settles it, son. When your ball starts to hit back at you, it's time to quit!"

"The woman who doesn't gossip," points out Harry Wister, "has no friends to speak of."

Robert S. Allen Reports Military Budget Expected To Rise Billion Dollars

Washington, Sept. 7 — Military spending is going up!

Despite that talk about economizing and again balancing the budget next year, the initial requirements submitted for the new military budget indicate a big increase is virtually inescapable.

That's the inside word given President Eisenhower by Defense Secretary Wilson. Wilson expressed the belief it will be just about impossible to avoid adding at least $1,000,000 to the next military budget.

That means a total of around $35,500,000,000.

This fiscal year's defense budget, as finally voted by Congress, is $34,656,000,000. That is $508,877,000 more than the total proposed by the President. The Democrats put through this increase to expand and speed up strategic bomber construction.

Practically all the anticipated $1,000,000,000 hike will go to the Air Force.

It actually wants upwards of $6,000,000,000 additional.

The preliminary budget presented by General Nathan Twining, Air Chief of Staff, was approximately $23,000,000,000. The Air Force's current budget is $16,779,125,000 — nearly one-half the entire military budget.

Secretary Wilson flatly rejected Twining's huge proposal. He was directed to prune it drastically.

The Air Chief, in Pentagon discussions, is now advocating $20,000,000,000.

That is also considered too high by Wilson. He has expressed willingness to examine Twining's downward-revised budget, but offered little hope of agreeing to it. Wilson conceded the probable need for more Air Force money next fiscal year, but is sternly insisting the increase be held to a minimum.

Two key factors were cited by Wilson in explaining to the President why the next defense budget is likely to be larger.

Continued expansion of the Air Force, particularly in the most expensive units and equipment.

Increased production costs, and contemplated sizable pay boosts to prevent the critical loss of essential technical personnel.

Wilson also told the President there will be no increases of any kind for the Army and Navy. In fact, the Army's budget may again be cut, as happened this year.

Current Army budget is $7,539,000,000; the Navy's $9,999,000,000.

On the present—Certain South American countries are being sounded out on visits by top Kremlin moguls.

It's being intimated that Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Khrushchev might accept such "invitations" themselves.

There is every indication the Reds are serious in these overtures. Their source and importance is unquestionable. The Russians are clearly striving for a smashing propaganda coup in Latin America. They apparently figure they would score that with a tour by Kremlin czars.

This undercover maneuver is the latest in a constantly-expanding Communist drive to breach the southern continent.

The Soviet and its satellites are extremely active in seeking trade and cultural ties there. They have exchanged numerous delegations with Latin countries, and seize every opportunity to make further inroads.

Strikingly indicative of the success of these Red operations is the following:

Soviet bloc trade in South America last year totaled $500,000,000. This is a new record, and approximately three times the value of this trade in 1950.

More than 1,000 Latin American educators, scientists, businessmen and others visited Iron Curtain countries to attend various "international" conferences.

In every instance, these delegations traveled as the Red's guests. Scores of pro-Communist publications have sprung up throughout South America, and the dissemination of Communist literature and films has enormously increased.

A startling report on the extent and aggressiveness of the Red's drive is contained in a comprehensive Intelligence survey for the National Security Council, top policy agency of the government.

This study presents a detailed account of Communist activities in each Latin country. The report is being circulated among top State and Defense Department authorities as "must" reading by them.

Monday Drill Should Draw Interest

By Jim Riley

Monday's special Civil Defense drill should interest every resident of Monroe County.

It will feature for the most part the Civil Defense Boat Unit and several Monroe County fire companies. The drill will give the fire companies a great opportunity to try their new radio system and the boatmen a chance to show their ability.

A total of 300 people and 40 boats will take part in the drill. The show will be in East Stroudsburg.

Margie Beseker, resident of Tannersville and a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, is now teaching in the Washington, N. J. school system.

Marg is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beseker, Tannersville. She is also a graduate of Pocono High School.

Miss Catherine DePue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles DePue, Grange Road, Mount Pocono, is a surgical patient at Hahnemann Hospital, Scranton.

Catherine, an employee of Bell Telephone, would like very much to her from her many friends.

Capt. William J. Dawe, a native of Pen Argy, is on detached duty with the Air Force for six months. He is now stationed in Pakistan, where he is an instructor in the art of flying.

Mrs. Dawe, the former Harriet Francisco, also of Pen Argy, is living in England with children Sandy, Billy, Debbie, Dannie, Susie and Tracie.

Harold Hosier, well known Civil Defense official, bought himself a new rain hat the other day. He was supposed to pick it up Thursday afternoon.

You guessed it. It was raining too hard for Harold to make the trip to the store.

You all will know when Harold picks up the hat. It will be a perfectly clear day.

Dick Walters, insurance agent in these parts, is off on a short vacation.

At last reports Dick was headed New England way.

Miss Viola Bruch, Kunkletown RD1, was admitted to Gaden Huerten Hospital, Leighton, this week.

She is a medical patient.

Pocono Manor will play host to the Middle Atlantic Regional Conference of the American Heart Association next Friday and Saturday.

Virtually all of the group is from Carbon County.

Monroe County Contributes Only 45 Pints Of Blood

Total Falls 80 Pints Below Quota

ONE OF THE slowest days in the history of the blood donor movement in Monroe County was experienced yesterday.

Only 45 pints were donated during the six hours the Bloodmobile was stationed at the American Legion Home, East Stroudsburg. The goal was 125 pints.

An officer of the Legion, which sponsored the drive this month, said 48 persons volunteered to give blood, but three were rejected. There were 20 walk-ins, a larger number than usual.

Among those who reported were four Brooklyn residents who replaced the blood needed by two patients at General Hospital.

Highlight
A highlight of yesterday's drive was the presentation of a three-gallon pin to Howard Trane for donating 24 pints of blood over a period of several years. A large percentage of the donors yesterday had previously given blood, according to Red Cross officials.

Results of yesterday's drive disappointed both Legion and Red Cross officials since the 45 pints represented only 43 percent of the monthly quota, based on an annual goal of 1,250 pints. It was especially disheartening, they said, because the Legion had obtained donor pledges from 60 persons.

It was the third straight month in the new fiscal year the county has failed to meet its quota, a factor Red Cross Blood Chairman LeRoy Mikel said would handicap the General Hospital in treating patients needing blood.

Party Held For Maj. Howard

TOBYHANNA — Maj. James C. Howard, ordnance officer at the Tobyhanna Signal Depot, was tendered a farewell dinner by a number of fellow officers and townspeople in the Methodist Church here Thursday night.

Maj. Howard, who came to Tobyhanna several years ago, is being transferred to Europe by the Army Signal Corps.

Activities
He has been active in Boy Scout and many other youth activities during his brief residence here. Parents and community leaders paid tribute to him for the many hours he devoted to instructing young people in leadership and moral living, and for tutoring students with delinquencies in one or more subjects.

Maj. Howard's son, George, who had attended Coolbaugh High School, is enrolled at a military academy in Virginia for the period his father is in Europe.

Clark, Scheduled To Visit Stroudsburg Today, Launches Senatorial Campaign

By Leonard Randolph
JOSEPH S. CLARK, Democratic Senatorial candidate, last night launched a hard-hitting area campaign for election with a charge that his opponent, Sen. Duff, has been an "absentee" Senator and by noting, also, that Duff had "admitted the claims I have made about his absentee voting record."

Clark was the major speaker at a 15th Congressional District Democratic dinner honoring Rep. Francis E. Walter.

The speaker urged support of the entire Democratic ticket in the November election. He specifically mentioned Rep. Walter and Rep. Van D. Yetter Jr., D-Monroe, State assemblyman along with Democratic candidates from Northampton and Carbon counties.

Clark's attack on Duff was only part of the multi-pronged onslaught aimed at the Republican party in general and at the Eisenhower administration and Republican Congress in particular. He touched on the following subjects:

Taxes
Income taxes—"With living costs increasing steadily during the past three and one half years, the Republicans have fought against adjusting lower income brackets by opposing increased tax reductions for them. The junior senator from Pennsylvania (Duff) voted "No" on giving greater tax exemptions for lower income groups—while at the same time being in favor of giving corporations 91 percent of the tax reduction."

Income tax comparisons—"The Republicans have given lip service to the needs of the American wage earner who pays more in taxes to count income, sales and excise taxes—than in 1952. In 1955 the total average figure was $809 as compared to only $794 in 1952."

Minimum wage—"While the Democratic party sought to give the working man a $1.25 hourly minimum wage, the Republican administration in Washington opposed it with the President himself only favoring a 90-cent minimum."

Social Security—"It is typical of the Republicans that they opposed Social Security payments at age 50 to totally disabled persons. The junior senator (Duff) voted against those payments."

Education—"It is also typical of the Republican administration that it waited three and one half years before it offered any plan of aid to education. And then the President did not send one single word in support of the measure to Congress—while the nation faces a shortage of hundreds of thousands of classrooms and a severe shortage of teachers."

Duff's "absentee" record—"The absentee record of the junior senator from Pennsylvania is something else for Pennsylvania voters to remember. The junior senator has now admitted the claims I have made about his absentee voting record. Let me repeat it to you, now: In 1951 there were 91 Senators with better voting records; in 1952 there were 82; in 1953 there were 78 and in 1955 there were 59. In 1956—an election year—the junior senator had a much better attendance record."

Description
Describing the Democratic party as "the major political group in this country that is dedicated to serving the needs and interests of all groups, as opposed to the Republican party's obsession with serving primarily the needs of big business," Clark told his listeners: "When you look at the record of the Democratic party in Congress you understand the fundamental difference between it and the Republican party—the Democrats give the people government that is of, for and by the people."

Clark will confer in Stroudsburg today with Sheriff Jacob F. Altomere, Democratic County chairman, and other leaders from the area.

The conference will follow a luncheon at 11:30 a.m. in the Penn-Stroud Hotel. Clark will leave here at 3 p.m. for Easton.

ESSTC Professor Awarded Doctor Of Education Degree

JAMES A. REED, of 237 E. Broad St., East Stroudsburg, received his Doctor of Education degree at Summer commencement exercises held recently at the University of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Reed has been associate professor of health and physical education at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College since the Fall of 1955.

A product of Perry High School, Pittsburgh, he received his Bachelor of Science degree in health and physical education at Penn State University in 1935. He did his post-graduate work at the University of Pittsburgh, where he was awarded his Master's degree.

Teaching
He taught for eight years at Westview High School, Pittsburgh, before entering the Navy in February, 1943. He commanded a torpedo boat in the South Pacific during World War Two. He left the service in January, 1946 to become chief of employee relations in the VA office in Pittsburgh.

Less than a year later, Dr. Reed was appointed dean of men at Edinboro State Teachers College and served there until he was recalled to the Navy in 1951 as procurement officer in Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

He returned to Edinboro in December, 1953 and served there until coming to East Stroudsburg a year ago. He has been an athletic coach for 20 years. Dr. Reed is married and the father of two children.

Youth For Christ To Show Film

MONROE COUNTY Youth for Christ will open its 1956-57 schedule tonight at 8, with the showing of the film "Seventeen," produced by Youth Films, division of Youth for Christ, International.

Local Youth for Christ group is an interdenominational effort, providing wholesome activity for local teenagers as well as a challenge for Christian living.

Rallies are held on alternate Saturday nights. Special fun-packed socials that are "different" are held each intervening Saturday.

Leader
Tonight's rally will be led by Bob Bullock, director of the local group, and special music will include trio, mixed quartet, duet, solo, and mixed chorus.

The film "Seventeen" was produced by and for today's teenagers. It is the story of a group of high school kids who dared to stand for what they believed.

Youth for Christ has secured the use of the auditorium of the Baptist Church, East Stroudsburg, for its rallies. All seats are free and the public is urged to attend the rally today at 8 p.m.

High Water Slows Project

HEAVY RAINS on Thursday caused an undetermined amount of damage to the new bridge now under construction at Bartonville. It was announced last night by a spokesman for Nittany Materials, Inc.

Graham Robinson, of Saylorburg, in charge of the project, said water "got into an excavation."

Pump
"Until we get the water pumped out," said Robinson, "we won't be able to know how much damage was done."

However, Robinson indicated that work on the project is expected to resume Monday.

National Civil Defense Week Opens In Area Tomorrow

A LETTER FROM Judge Fred W. Davis, Monroe County Civil Defense director, is expected to be read in local churches tomorrow as the county joins in the observance of National Civil Defense Week.

Various programs will be sponsored each day through next Saturday by the county Civil Defense organization in observance of National C-D Week.

Meanwhile, a proclamation has been signed by the burgesses of Monroe County's four boroughs urging residents to participate in the special observances.

Proclamation
The proclamation reads: "WHEREAS, the maintenance of peace and, as an alternative, personal and national survival in the event of enemy attack or natural disaster are of paramount interest to the citizens of Monroe County, and

"WHEREAS, the existence of a strong and efficient civil defense is recognized as a means of attaining these goals, and

"WHEREAS, the strength of the Nation's civil defense depends upon the state of individual and community disaster preparedness throughout the Nation, and

"WHEREAS President Eisenhower has called upon the Nation to observe the week of September 9-15 as Civil Defense Week as a means of developing an awareness of the need for general participation in civil defense,

"NOW, THEREFORE, we the undersigned Burgesses of the undersigned boroughs do hereby proclaim the aforementioned week as Civil Defense Week and urge the residents to participate in the observance of this week."

It was signed by Hal H. Harris of Stroudsburg; Jesse R. S. Flory of East Stroudsburg; Benjamin Wilberg, of Delaware Water Gap and Gerald M. Possinger, of Mt. Pocono.

Remain Same
Bus routes for school children will remain the same as they were for the 1955-56 school year.

School cafeteria will be open the first day. Price of lunches will be 20 cents per day.

There will be a general teachers meeting Monday at 8 a.m. prior to first classes.

Red Cross Chapters To Settle Policy

REPRESENTATIVES of 34 Red Cross Chapters in the area served by the Wilkes-Barre Blood Bank will meet at Skyline Inn on Wednesday. It is a meeting of the co-ordinating committee of the blood bank, the policy-making group of the blood bank, which meets at regular intervals to discuss common problems.

Member
LeRoy Mikel, chairman of the Monroe County Blood Donor program, is a member of the co-ordinating committee. The meeting is open to everyone interested in the blood program, and the local chapter, as host, is expected to have a large representation.

Reservations for the dinner, scheduled for 6:30, should be made with the Red Cross office by Tuesday noon.

Two Injured In Accident

BUSHKILL—Charles Trone, 47, of Newburgh, N. Y., was listed in "guarded" condition at General Hospital, East Stroudsburg, last night after he suffered a head injury in a two-car collision on Route 209 here at 6:15 p.m.

Milford State Police said Trone's 49-year-old wife, Vesta Ladora Trone, received a head laceration and was treated at the General Hospital dispensary. She later was discharged.

Troopers said a 1955 sedan, operated by Mrs. Trone, crashed into a car driven by Argus Walter, 45, of 102 Prospect St., East Stroudsburg, which was pulling onto the highway at the time.

Monroe County To Be Affected By Historic Merger Of Two Protestant Congregations

By Paul Carlson

HUNDREDS of area Protestants will be affected by the first historic merger of two large denominations with divergent backgrounds.

The union of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and the Congregational Christian Church promises to "set a pattern" for further fusion of Protestant denominations, many church leaders believe.

During sessions in Lancaster, some 400 ministers and lay representatives to the 10th triennial meeting of the Evangelical and Reformed Church endorsed the merger, which earlier was approved by the Congregationalists.

However, the merger will not be consummated until next June, when denominational leaders will meet in Cleveland to take initial steps to organize the new United Church in Christ.

The new denomination will be composed of an estimated 785,000 E-R members and some 1,342,000 Congregationalists, making it the seventh largest Protestant body in America.

Rev. William E. Foose, pastor of the Tannersville E-R charge, noted that one-third of the denomination's membership is in Pennsylvania. Nine of the 34 synods are in the Keystone State.

"My people are behind the merger," commented Mr. Foose. "And they are eagerly looking forward to June, 1937 when it will be officially consummated."

Actually, leaders of all denominations have been interested in this fusion because the Congregational Church is an outgrowth of the Anglican communion, while the Evangelical and Reformed Church has been influenced by German and Swiss theology and Presbyterian policy.

"Other denominations are following with great interest the formation of this union, with a view toward considering what the pattern will hold for future unions," remarked Dr. Fred Hoskins, secretary of the Congregational Christian Church.

"This merger of different families of Christianity provides a pattern and gives a viable way of bringing churches together," Dr. Hoskins said further.

Dr. Foose, along with other clergymen, believes that this merger is rooted in the growing ecumenical spirit prevalent in Protestantism, as well as in a new appreciation of St. Paul's plea for churches to keep "the unity of the Spirit in the bonds of Peace." (Eph. 4:3).

It was out of a desire for greater understanding and unity that the modern ecumenical movement was born.

The first important meeting was held in 1927 at Lausanne, Switzerland, and was called the Conference on Faith and Order. The following year, an enlarged meeting of the International Missionary Council met at Easter time on the Mount of Olives to consider the relation of Christianity to the non-Christian religions and the world of that day.

Out of these sessions, and subsequent conferences, arose a new sense of the universality of the Church. Since then, the National Council and World Council of Churches have come into being.

"A wholehearted recognition of Christ's deity is the basis of the new Christian unity that is being sought today in the Protestant world," Dr. John A. Mackay, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, said recently.

Dr. Mackay said further: "This does not mean, of course, that the goal proposed is a single ecclesiastical structure made up of all Protestant churches in any given country, or of a world church with a single centralized authority."

"Seriously to entertain such an idea would run counter to the mind of Christ and to the true meaning and structure of the Christian Church. . . . What is sought is a federated expression of Christianity in which an increasing number of churches would unite organically, while others would manifest a growing unity in their doctrine, life, and practical endeavor, and in their strategy with respect to the secular order."

Dr. Mackay, a staunch supporter of the ecumenical movement, has

Knights To Hold Picnic Tomorrow

FATHER BUTLER Council Knights of Columbus will hold its first family outing and picnic tomorrow at Locust Grove House, near Bushkill.

Those attending the outing are asked to drive to Fernwood and turn left. Signs will direct Knights, their families and friends to the picnic.

In case of rain the picnic will be held next Sunday. The outing is scheduled for 1 p.m.

Athletic events will be held during the course of the afternoon, also pointed out that the movement has led to a "reawakened concern for the secular order," and for an appreciation of the need for "an ecumenical theology."

Dr. Douglas Horton, dean of Harvard Divinity School and former secretary of the Congregational Christian Church, has stated it somewhat differently.

"I can almost be said that each denomination carries a mythological conception of the others," Dr. Horton told delegates to the historic E-R general synod last week.

"Part of the pleasure of the ecumenical movement has been to discover that members of other communions are real people, subject to the social attractions and temptations of any us," Dr. Horton said.

Wyman-Gordon's giant Air Force Press, largest in the world, designed and built by Loewy-Hydropress, exerts 30,000-ton pressure to forge aircraft parts.

It takes a GIANT to make a lasting impression

It takes the power of a giant machine to make a perfect impression on any metal. It takes the power of a giant medium to make a permanent impression on any market. That medium is the newspaper, a giant who lives in every town.

The newspaper is a massive force in advertising because it carries the weight of public confidence. People believe in their newspapers, eagerly look for them and shop from them every day. Over 56,000,000 are bought daily, an all-time high.

In no other medium can local retailers, wholesalers and distributors tie in so effectively with the companies whose products they sell. That's one of the reasons why all advertisers spent $3,070,000,000 last year in newspapers.

If you want to engrave a lasting advertising impression, use the newspaper. It reaches further, digs deeper, lasts longer. Step up your newspaper advertising and you'll step up your sales.

All business is local... and so are all newspapers.

Gower Reunion Is Held At Fairgrounds

Kresgeville—The 26th annual reunion of the Gower family was held at the West End Fair Grounds on Sunday afternoon with the president, Martin Lohach, in charge. Rev. G. Robert Booth was the speaker and Kresge's Variety Band furnished music for the gathering. The old officers were all re-elected: President, Martin Lohach; Secretary, Mrs. George Greenamoyer; Treasurer, Robert Gower; Historian, Irene Gower. It was decided to hold the next reunion at the same place next year and also the same date the first Sunday in September. The following were the prize winners: oldest man present, Francis Lohach, 82; oldest lady, Mrs. Alice Andrews, 80; youngest person, Donald Miller, 6 week old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Miller; most recently married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Miller, 2 years; couple married the longest, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gower, 51 years; largest family, Otto Gower family, four children; coming the longest distance, Mr. and Mrs. William Gower, 360 miles.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

If Peter gets to college with a pot of baked beans, an unidentified casserole of something covered with bread crumbs and some uncooked hotdogs in his foot locker, I won't be surprised.

His luggage was going out while the remnants of the slumber party were coming in and things got very complicated. From all reports, the hours from 6 to 8 a.m. were the ones reserved for slumber at that slumber party. The rest of the time they ate and still had enough left over to feed a small army.

Which would be fine on the budget for next week, if my own small army weren't leaving for Carolina in the morning. At least, details of that fateful night should enliven our journey.

One thing I won't have to be worried about is what you'll be doing while I'm gone. There are going to be more "important first meetings" next week than people to go to them. I'm afraid. Right away there comes one of these inevitable conflicts with the WSCS and Ann Logan the same night.

I sort of hate to miss Marielene Coleman's wedding this morning, and the Pocono Garden Club's flower show next week, not to mention all of the refreshments that are going to be served at all those meetings.

Better save some of your activity for the week after next just to keep me busy. It's going to be a hilarious trip down but sort of an empty trip back—minus one passenger and a string bass (no, not a fish, friend, a stringed instrument).

Altar, Rosary Special "Day" Set Sept. 23

The executive board of St. Matthew's Altar and Rosary Society discussed plans for the coming year at a meeting in the school auditorium on Wednesday night. Final plans were made for the Day of Recollection on September 23. Since this is before the regular meeting, members are asked to make reservations early.

Reservations and arrangements for transportation may be made with Mrs. Adolph Oppel, 5183; Mrs. Walter Gretkowski, 1108; or Mrs. Thomas Leonard, 2994-J.

Mrs. Leonard and Mrs. Arthur Henning served refreshments to the following board members: Mrs. George Runz, Mrs. George Hack, Mrs. A. M. Hickey, Mrs. Truman Burnett, Mrs. Joseph DeVivo, Mrs. John Hauser, Mrs. Adolph Oppel, Mrs. Theodore Viechnicki, Mrs. Joseph Kushinski, Mrs. Walter Gretkowski, Mrs. Paul Kennedy, Mrs. Arthur Blewitt, Miss Clara Lombardi and Mrs. A. G. Fry.

Slumber Party For Reunion Of Classmates

There was very little slumber when friends from the class of 1955, Stroudsburg High School, held a reunion at a slumber party given by Miss Nancy Westbrook on Thursday night at her grandfather's trailer on the Delaware.

The party marked the end of summer jobs for many of the girls who will be returning to college within the next few weeks as sophomores. It began with a covered dish supper on the patio and ended after breakfast.

Those attending were: Elaine and Eileen Ackerman, Audrey Albert, Patty Stalmer, Helen Kuchinski; Joanne Towse of New York City; Pat Hamilton of Philadelphia, who is Nancy Westbrook's roommate at Cedar Crest College; Laurean Flagler, Centenary College; Jody Shook, Middlebury College; Sue Harmon, Ursinus College; Martha Williams, Dickinson College; Sally Rayburn, Ada Zugel, Sue Driebe, East Stroudsburg State Teachers College; Nancy Teller and Marie Cohen, Pennsylvania State University; Ruth Fetherman, Syracuse University; and Mary Hock, Wilson College.

Salem Guild Organized For New Year

Gilbert—The Woman's Guild of the Salem Evangelical Reformed Church met Tuesday night to begin their new season. Elizabeth Shupp was in charge of devotions on the theme "Witness Boldly."

The Cedar Crest Summer Conference, held at Cedar Crest College, Allentown, was reported by Charlotte Booth who represented Salem Guild. Rosa Shupp, president, was in charge of the business meeting. Elda Dunning, secretary, read the minutes and called the roll with the answer given by naming a favorite hymn. Mariane Everett gave the financial report.

The 15th annual Fall Mountain Regional Guild will meet at Pelmerton, it was announced.

Kits containing literature for use during the coming year were distributed to the chairmen: Christian Stewardship, Pauline Frable; Christian Social Action, Nora Anglemeyer; Christian Service, Rosa Welliver; Christian Spiritual Life, Violet Gursky; Christian Missions, Kathryn Snyder; Christian Education, Carrie Dunning.

Present at the meeting were Lydia Deibert, Pauline Frable, Mabel Murphy, Ethel Gehris, Grace Gregory, Charlotte Booth, Lilian Kregger, Violet Gursky, Carrie Dunning, Emma Metzler, Rosa Welliver, Mabel Anglemeyer, Stella Kresge, Margaret Schubert, Nora Anglemeyer, Marjane Everett, Elda Dunning, Florence Drehsbach, Rosa Schupp, Beulah Gregory, Ruth Kregger, Fern Hawk and Elizabeth Shupp.

Mrs. J. B. Hamblin Honored At Dinner Party

Swiftwater—A birthday party and dinner for Mrs. J. Burton Hamblin was celebrated in one of the private dining rooms of the Rhineland Inn at Swiftwater on Sunday. The guests were seated at a horseshoe shaped table decorated with multi-colored candles and a fall bouquet in yellow, orange, flame and red.

A dinner was climaxed with a surprise in the form of a large ice cream-filled layer cake, decorated with white icing and red cherries surrounding the birthday candles.

The twenty guests attending the party included Rev. and Mrs. Donald Hamblin, their daughters Donna and Dotie Jill and their son Drew of Windsor, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hamblin, their daughter Elizabeth and their sons David, William and James and Mrs. Hamblin's father, Mr. William Heiter of Woodland Road, Swiftwater; Mr. and Mrs. John Hamblin and their sons Daniel and John of Swiftwater and Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Hulse of New York and Swiftwater together with the host and hostess of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. J. Burton Hamblin.

Dinner at The Rhineland was followed by a social evening at the J. Burton Hamblin home in Swiftwater.

MISS DOROTHY Goldy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goldy, 295 Broadhead Ave., East Stroudsburg, entered as a student nurse at Sacred Heart Hospital School of Nursing, Allentown, on August 28. She is a graduate of East Stroudsburg High School class of 1956.

The Record Social News

Overnight Held By Scout Troop

Mrs. Fred Fatzinger and her Intermediate Girl Scouts were not dismayed during their recent "Overnight" at Camp Treble, when heavy rainstorms ended their campfire, and electric problems threatened the safety of their chicken, hamburger, and fresh milk.

Refrigerator failure sent the scouts hurrying about as they repacked the next day's food in pails of cold water. Peggy Ebel and Sarah Wright were given Senior pins — and the Girl Scout Handshake was given about the campfire when the first large drops of rain started to fall. The Campfire program was continued in The Lodge, and groups of Girl Scouts interpreted the meaning of the Girl Scout Laws by Shadowgraphs.

Mrs. Lawrence Musselman was the nurse in charge of the campers.

Susan Fatzinger, Marie Elnoff, Diane Houck and Diane Staples passed firebuilding requirements for the Second Class Badge.

Donna Cramer, Betty Newmann, Phyllis Weiner, Sandra Neyhart, Ann Wilford and Judy Fatzinger also helped prepare the potatoes and corn for roasting over both wood and charcoal fires.

The "Kaper Chart," planned by the troop, was followed closely, and dinner was served on time — as planned. The girls preparedness in gathering and properly covering a large pile of firewood on the first day, made wood fires successful early next morning, and throughout the day.

A short hike into the woods to the "Shelter," the discovery of a small herd of cows, a tree game, whetted appetites all added to the merry sound heard about the camp. Mrs. Roger Acker accompanied the troop in the absence of the assistant leader — Mrs. Robert Wright.

Arla Joro Lauds This Section On Television

Monroe County got a good boost on television on Monday from one of its grateful guests, Miss Arla Joro, of Helsinki, Finland, who has been visiting in homes of the community as the guest of the Stroudsburg Woman's Club, went to Philadelphia to visit historic spots on Thursday.

On her trip, she stopped in at a television broadcast and found herself a guest on the "Let Scott Do It" program over channel 3. Local viewers heard her describe the hospitality of the Woman's Club and beauty of Monroe County in glowing terms.

Poplar Valley WSCS Plans Fall Activities

Poplar Valley Women's Society of Christian Service mapped out a busy fall calendar at their meeting Wednesday night in the social hall with Mrs. Ernest Brewer presiding.

Members were urged to take home jars to be filled for the Home for the Aged. The jars must be returned in time for the Booth Festival on October 24. A committee plans to make doughnuts this month, and a bake sale will be held on Saturday, September 15 for the parsonage trustees of the charge with Mrs. Paul Albert in charge.

The group also planned a bazaar and food sale for Friday, October 19. Mrs. Leon Parcell was appointed chairman. Serving with her will be Mrs. Donald Bessecker, Mrs. Edward Dennis and Miss Joyce Gunn.

The WSCS will purchase more paint for the church, voted to continue selling serving aprons, and will have their meetings entered on the Anna Logan Calendar.

The meeting opened with devotions led by Mrs. Paul Albert, with Mrs. Donald Bessecker reading the Scriptures and Mrs. Clyde Levergood leading in prayer. Mrs. Orien Reish was accompanist.

A report was given of the successful homecoming service. Mrs. Paul Albert chairman of the dinner committee announced that more than $62 had been collected.

Mrs. Albert also reported that the heater the group planned to buy for the social hall will not be adequate and some other form of heating will have to be used. The new counters being built by Thomas Carson will be ready soon, she announced.

Hostesses were reminded that their duties also include keeping the church clean during the month they serve. The Women's Auxiliary of the Stroud Township Fire Company was granted permission to use the hall.

The next meeting of the society will be held October 3 when Mrs. Levergood will be hostess. A pot luck dinner will be served before the meeting.

Not too exhausted after the lengthy business session, the women held a hilarious auction sale. Items were concealed in bags and only a "feel" of the articles was allowed before bidding. Mrs. Ernest Brewer was auctioneer.

Mrs. Elwood Fenner and Mrs. Donald Bessecker served refreshments to the following: Rev. and Mrs. C. Clyde Levergood, Mrs. Wilfred Wagner, Miss Rosabelle Wells, Mrs. Edward Gunn, Mrs. Fred Dennis, Mrs. Orien Reish, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Parcell, Mrs. Arthur Roberts, Mrs. Ernest Brewer, Mrs. Paul Albert, Mrs. Norman Dennis, Mrs. Horace Brewer and Mrs. Frank Butts.

Esther Circle Monday

Ether Circle of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church will meet Monday afternoon at 2, at the home of Mrs. Nathan G. Meyer, 205 Analomink St.

Son For Currans

Mount Pocono—Baby Matthew Joseph Curran, son of Matthew and Annetta DeSanto Curran, of Pine Hill Park, was born Wednesday at noon, at Monroe County General Hospital.

Junior Class In Pocono Flower Show

Tannersville—A flower show, sponsored by the Pocono Garden Club, will be held at the Pocono Township fire house, Tannersville, on Wednesday, September 12 and Thursday, September 13. The public is invited to attend. Hours for viewing exhibits will be from 3 to 10 p.m. on Sept. 12, and from 1 to 10 p.m. on Sept. 13.

Members are urged to exhibit specimens in the annual or perennial flower classes or in one or more of the arrangement classes. Persons desiring to enter the special feature "Pocono Pastime" must reserve space in advance.

Junior classes, a dish garden using wild materials and an arrangement suitable for teachers desk, are open to all children of the community under sixteen years of age.

Stroudsburg WSCS First Meeting Monday

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church will hold its first meeting of the new year on Monday night at 8 at the church parlors.

A report of the WSCS activities at Pocono Plateau this summer will be given by Mrs. Merle Ruff and Mrs. Lloyd Miller. Plans for the coming year will be discussed.

Mrs. J. W. Pennington is chairman of the hostess committee.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Washing and drying dishes and glassware are, without question, my two favorite household chores. In fact I have always said if I couldn't earn my living in the way I do today, I would gladly take a job at a restaurant that had NO mechanical dish washers and dryers. If this statement sounds traitorous to Harold Albert and my other pals of the Appliance Department, I hope to make amends in the paragraphs that follow. For, to tell you the truth, I am now of the opinion that there's an even easier way of earning money. I think I could be equally happy taking in washing.

My reason for saying this is the beautiful . . . fabulous . . . inducement 1957 Frigidaire twin washers and dryer, which will be officially unveiled on our selling floor this coming Monday, September 18th. My acquaintance with this gorgeous new laundry equipment is not actual as yet, for the Imperial Pair is being heavily guarded, as befits royalty. But I have seen photographs . . . and both pieces are as delightfully photogenic as Queen Elizabeth and her Philip. What is more, the printed material telling just what can be done by Frigidaire today is extremely readable and exciting.

For one thing, the new Frigidaires have "control towers"—flexible Select-a-Dials set in a distinctive box-type arrangement of shiny chrome with an easy-to-read electrified dial. New tapered controls on the washer respond to fingertip touch, giving the housewife a choice of hot or warm wash water, and even a warm or cold rinse. Frigidaire points out that the new cold water rinse can save as much as eight gallons of precious hot water to a single full load, providing proper water temperature for certain types of man-made fabrics, thus simplifying ironing.

The dryer has a new Dry-o-Matic timer, permitting one to dry clothes to any degree desired—either billowy soft for immediate storage or just damp enough for ironing. And no matter what drying time is selected—whether ten or 145 minutes—there is a five minute cooling period included just before shutoff in which clothes tumble lazily without heat in a smooth, porcelain drum.

That word porcelain is pretty precious too, for absolutely nothing compares with it. It is a guarantee of life time beauty for any appliance, tough as steel and clean with the gentleness of whisks from a damp cloth. An improved lint-free filter and a toe-touch dryer door are other features that assure Frigidaire's continued supremacy in the field of automatic laundry equipment.

When it comes to this twin-answer to Blue Mondays, I might point out that Frigidaire equipment comes in "compatible color." That word compatible in this instance is my own . . . not the manufacturer's, because the spring-blush pink is as entrancing to me as a rainbow after a storm. Believe me, this is a buy that will wash away all of the troubles that get into a housewife's hair. And every woman will be singing "I'm In Love With a Wonderful Guy" when her own wonderful guy falls for the same wonderful buy!

We'll do the Laundry, Ma'am and you'll have the time. It Costs just a few cents a day to shake off the shackles of Wash Day Drudgery . . . To be a lovely Lady on the go, let us take over your Wash Day Woes.

Two New Appointments Made By Monroe County YMCA

JOHN WILSON, general secretary of the Monroe County YMCA announced yesterday that William McDonnell has assumed the duties of youth director and executive secretary of the Barrett Branch YMCA.

McDonnell, who was formerly the physical director in Stroudsburg, will make his home with his wife, Stella, and their two children, Deborah Ann and Bill Jr., in Mountaintown.

McDonnell came to Stroudsburg after being discharged from the Air Force as a first lieutenant. Before entering the service he received in 1933 a B. A. degree from the University of Louisiana.

Mrs. Inger Miller has taken over the duties as director of women's and girls' activities and programming. She came to Stroudsburg from Richmond, Va., where she was director of Hillside Court Community Center under the department of recreation, City of Richmond.

Germany

Mrs. Miller, who is Danish, came to this country in 1952 after having spent several years in Germany with her husband, who was serving with the Foreign Service of the State Department. During that time she taught for the Army Educational Service, and did extensive volunteer work for both American and German Agencies.

In Denmark Mrs. Miller worked for the Danish Chamber of Commerce. She was educated in Aarhus, Denmark, where she received her degree in Math in 1945 from the Aarhus "Katedral School."

Mrs. Miller joined her husband who came to Monroe County in March as the District Scout Executive. They will make their home in Stroudsburg with their three children, Martha, Lloyd and Thomas.

Pocono Grange To Hold Meeting

TANNERSVILLE — John Montgomery, master of Pocono Grange 1415, announces the first meeting of the Fall will be held at the Hall Friday night, Sept. 14.

This Grange was awarded second prize at the recent West End Fair for its exhibit of farm products, a few pieces of fancy work, etc.

Mrs. Ruth Howell compiled a scrap book, containing photographs of the various project improvements during recent months and entered it in a nation-wide contest sponsored by the National Grange and Sears Roebuck Foundation, Washington, D. C.

Interior

The photographs depicted the interior of the Grange Hall before and after many improvements were made in the interior, such as painting, building of shelves with doors, new flooring, and so on. A new roof was also put on the building a short time ago.

The organization plans to grade outside the hall, as one of its projects for the Fall. All members are asked to attend the Sept. 14 meeting so plans can be made for the coming months' activities.

Lancaster Cattle

LANCASTER, Sept. 7 (AP)—Cattle 700, not enough sales to test prices, stockers and feeders show, strong to 50 cents higher than Wednesday. Calves, hogs, sheep, none; no report.

a dinner meeting. It is an important meeting, however, and all members are urged to attend.

Display Advertising Copy DEADLINES

Advertising copy deadlines, just as news copy deadlines, are necessary . . . in fact, are imperative to the publication of a newspaper.

Enforcement of deadlines makes it possible to give readers a better newspaper, delivered on schedule. A better newspaper, promptly delivered to all sections of the trading area, means a better advertising medium.

It follows that adequate time for the proper handling of advertising copy, without interference with the mechanics of news production . . . and without jeopardizing the "on time" delivery of the newspaper . . . permits the better handling of advertising copy to work to the advantage of the advertiser in a better advertising medium.

In the interest of better serving ALL advertisers, all copy for display advertising, including CLASSIFIED DISPLAY, must meet the following deadlines:

Monday Copy	5 P.M. Friday
Tuesday Copy	12 Noon Saturday
Wednesday Copy	5 P.M. Monday
Thursday Copy	5 P.M. Tuesday
Friday Copy	5 P.M. Wednesday
Saturday Copy	5 P.M. Thursday

(Holiday Intervening—5 P.M. 3 days before publication)

When Proof Is Required
Prior To Publication of the Ad

The Deadline Is Noon
(Instead of 5 P.M.) on the days indicated above

Ex-Mountaineers In Running For Lafayette Grid Berths

EASTON—A wide-open battle for starting berths is the highlight of football drills at Lafayette College now entering the second week. With 16 lettermen missing from last year's squad, and Coach Steve Hofuf planning to use two platoons, many positions on the two teams are open.

Sophomores are very much in the running for starting assignments on either the first or second platoon.

In the backfield, Joe Bozik, of Donora, Pa., star quarterback of last year's team, is a certain starter. Two sophomore quarterbacks being groomed for action are Karl Weingartner, Stroudsburg, and Dick Archdeacon, Avenal, N. J.

At Caesar, Bridgeport, Conn., reserve signal caller last year, has been converted into a fullback this year and looks as though he will get the call on the first platoon. But Brad Jackson, Basking Ridge, N. J., and Alan Stephens, Binghamton, N. Y., both holdovers from last year's squad, and Roy Geiss, Laureldale, Pa., and Stewart Haddon, Union, N. J., are sophomore contenders for the post.

Have 1st Call
Jack Slatter, Quakertown, and Gordon Brown, Verona, N. J., both lettermen, have first call for the halfback posts. James Hourihan, Elizabeth, N. J., a letterman, and Dave Clauss and Dick Fritz, both of Phillipsburg, N. J., sophomores, have looked good in the backfield during the first week of practice.

The line looks like the strongest point on the Maroon eleven. Hofuf has a veteran forward wall from tackle to tackle and some fine reserves.

Line Veterans
Norris Ellison, a senior from Drexel Hill, appears certain of being at the pivot post for the second straight year. He is flanked at the guards by Bob Brougher, Pittsburg, and Bob Burch, Tamaqua, both seniors. Mike McCooye, Manchester, Vt., and Jim O'Brien, La Grange, Ill., also lettermen, have the edge at the tackles. Raymond Dahms, Roselle Park, N. J., is another letterman who should see a lot of action at tackle as should Bill Covalch, a junior from St. Clair, Pa.

Charles Armstrong, 225-pound sophomore from Alexandria, Va., is expected to give the tackle lettermen some competition.

The ends pose a problem for Hofuf, with last year's first four wingmen no longer on the squad. Al Adelmann, junior from Stroudsburg, and Jim Kontje, junior from Bayonne, N. J., are the top candidates at present. But Donald Dilley, Livingston, N. J., and Gordon Gibson, Washington, D. C., both sophomores, have attracted the coaches' attention.

Double drills are being held daily and will continue for the rest of the coming week.

Chicago Cub pitcher Bob Rush is the son of Harry J. Rush, former major league player with the old St. Louis Browns in the American League.

3 Big Races Set Today At Top Tracks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A dozen older horses will meet today in the $40,000-added Buckeye Handicap at Cleveland's Randall Park, while 3-year-old stars clash in the Jerome Handicap at Belmont Park and the Boardwalk Handicap at the Atlantic City.

The Woodland Farm's Blue Sparkler, speedy filly who won the $100,000 Atlantic City Handicap, carries top weight of 120 pounds in the mile and one-eighth Buckeye.

Others with high credentials will be the Calumet Farm's Bardstown who won the Equipse and Longport Handicaps, 118; Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' Paper Tiger, Saratoga Handicap winner, 119; and W. J. Beattie's Park Dandy, 113, winner of the 1955 Buckeye.

17 Entered
Seventeen horses were entered for the 1-mile Jerome Handicap, while 12 were named for the mile and one-eighth Boardwalk, both races carrying $25,000 in added money.

The Jerome is the nation's third oldest race for 3-year-olds, and was first held at Jerome Park in 1866, nine years before the Kentucky Derby was inaugurated.

A Chicago invader, the Waimac Farm's The Warrior, is top weighted for the Jerome with 123 pounds, while C. V. Whitney's Head Man has 122, and Howell E. Jackson's Tick Tock, 121. George D. Widener's entry of King Grail, 119, and Tealorian, 112, is dangerous, along with the Greenlee Stable's Riley, 117; the Calumet Farm's Liberty Sun, 112; and Wheatley Stable's Gray Phantom, 115.

Boardwalk
Tertane, the Santa Anita Derby winner, has high weight of 121 pounds for the Boardwalk Handicap, and carries the silks of Tex C. Ellsworth for the first time at Atlantic City. Ellsworth has swaps there for the $100,000 United Nations Handicap next Saturday.

Others include Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's On Johnny, 120, and Frank Rand Jr.'s St. Amour 2nd, 119.

Enos Slaughter of the Yankees believes he is the first big leaguer to have worn a protective helmet. He experimented with one during spring training in 1939, but claims he didn't wear one in a regular game until 1946.

New Davis Cup Head Places Strict Cards On 'No' Line

By ED CORRIGAN

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The new chief of the Davis Cup selection committee laid his cards on the line today—no favorites, no fair-haired boys, no sure things.

Chauncey D. Steele Jr., mindful of wrangling and accusations of favoritism in the past, will call his committee into session tomorrow to decide on a team to play the Italians in the Interzone final here starting Sept. 28.

Steele, who resides in Cambridge, Mass., minced no words. "I don't care if the guy is tall, fat or short," he said. "There will be no special consideration for the fair-haired boys of the past. I remember when Tony Trabert, Vic Seixas and Sam Giammalva were given what has been called preferential treatment."

No Snubbing
"And there will be no such thing as snubbing the so-called bad boys of tennis such as Gardnar Mulloy and Art Larsen. Naturally, once a player is picked, we expect him to show the foreign crowds he's the right kind of American."

Steele made no secret of the fact that he's hoping to curtail Dick Savitt, who had been suiting in Texas until he came out of hibernation this year.

In fact, some of Steele's remarks could have been directed right at the big Orange, N. J., old man. Savitt had a run-in with then captain, Frank Shields, in 1951, charging Ted Schroeder was picked to play the Australians in the challenge round purely on a basis of favoritism.

Noel Coward Makes Lasting Impression During Interview

By Leonard Randolph

NOEL COWARD, the eminent playwright, actor and producer, dropped in at Pocono Playhouse Thursday night.

Mr. Coward and I had a brief chat on stage. There were a few other celebrities around, besides the Great Mr. C.

Gloria Vanderbilt was there. So was Turhan Bey. So was Rowena Stevens.

Mrs. Stevens is the producer-owner-manager of the Playhouse, and, as usual, she didn't want to have her picture taken. Even with Mr. Coward and Mr. Bey and Mrs. Lumet. Mrs. Stevens generally prefers to operate her playhouse in the businesslike fashion which has earned her a fine and growing reputation both from the business point of view and from the artistic standpoint.

She was finally persuaded by Dixie Lee, David Ballou and a few others to pose for the photograph.

Mr. Coward came onstage a few minutes after the curtain had fallen on the last scene of Edward Chodorov's play "The Spa" which stars Mrs. Vanderbilt and Bey. He had already paid his respects to the actors backstage in their dressing rooms.

Under the lights still left burning on the stage, Noel Coward looked immeasurably younger than recent photographs or television cameras would have you believe. Although not a young man, there is the unmistakable stamp of youth in his face, in his reaction to the things others say and in the quick, often a little startling, smile. It would be safe to say, at this stage of the game, that Noel Coward is as close to agelessness as anyone has come in modern theatre where personality is concerned.

Coward posed willingly for the photographs. It was a gesture made simply and without grandeur, a concession to the perpetual spotlight (and the hard lighting of flashbulbs) which follow the famous like some women track down the broad banners of a department store white sale.

If there is to be any credit in the man it is to his undying credit that at small moments such as this—when consume only a little of a lifetime, yet cause lesser "personalities" to shiver with annoyance—Noel Coward can react with calm and gracious pleasantness. Inviting Noel Coward to have his picture taken Thursday night was received as gracefully as a silver-borne invitation to tea from the Duchess of Kent.

The Coward imprint on a play is often thought to be brittle and super-sophisticated. This is due, perhaps, to the fact that most of the plays with which his name is automatically associated are the witty farces he has done—try thinking of Coward without "Private Lives" and, for that matter, try thinking of "Private Lives" without Tallulah Bankhead.

In person, informally at least, Mr. Coward bore little resemblance to the Coward Legend Thursday night. He was charming, yes. Sophisticated, of course. British, naturally. But brittle and superficial? Not so far as I'm concerned.

There was the cigaret holder, of course. A Coward trademark. A device of enormous theatrical effectiveness which the noted playwright wields with durable intelligence and marked good timing. It would be wrong to call it a holder, probably. Once the cigaret has been placed deftly in the instrument and the instrument (trailing a thin wisp of smoke) has been placed in the right hand, it becomes a part of the actor's equipment, along with the voice, the crinkled lines at the corners of the eyes, the direct, somewhat smiling gaze, the slight forward-pitch of the body, the head slightly-slanted to one side, the general attitude of intent listening.

With most people—and this is sometimes especially true with actors who seem never to escape the presence of the one-eyed photographic monster peering at them from the front—it is necessary to issue all sorts of idiotic instructions: "Look at each other instead of the photographer." "Just relax and talk among yourselves."

With Coward, no instructions are necessary. He fell into the routine unconsciously with a knowing ease born of thousands of similar incidents in a life of carefully constructed scenes. And, in the process, he helped put the others at ease, making a brief comment, laughing with a spontaneity any adolescent could envy.

When the photographs had been taken, Coward was equally pleasant in consenting to talk for a few minutes—there was a party (courtesy of Mr. Bey, a friend of long standing) coming up in a little while and the playwright was leaving Cresco by train early in the morning.

Most of the brief talk concentrated on the Playhouse itself.

Mr. Coward said he thought Mrs. Stevens' theatre was completely charming and one of the most beautiful he'd seen. He was enchanted by the physical plant and the grounds and the stage.

Yes, he knew that the Playhouse had done two of his plays—"Blithe Spirit" several years ago and "Tonight At 8:30" in 1955. He was "pleased" at that and at reports he'd had of the productions. He was sorry he hadn't been able to come down in 1955—or sooner than that—to see this "lovely" theatre.

He remembered the August flood in 1955 and said that he was upset when he heard of it and hoped things were going along well now in the area.

Would he like to come back again? Of course, he said, he'd love to. But—and this with a quick smile—he hoped he wouldn't run into a flood or rainstorm (it rained heavily all day Thursday, when he was here).

A moment later he was gone, offstage.

Under the lights, props man Roger Celler draped the furniture with white cloth. The cluster of people who had stood a little hesitantly around the corners of the stage and down in the auditorium began to break apart and slip away.

The work remaining to be done was set upon patiently and directly. In the back of the auditorium director John O'Shaughnessy went over the final details of a sheet noting sound effects needed for next week's production, a suspense play called "A House In The Country." The tape recording of the sounds still had to be made.

Two men with brisk, husky British accents came hurriedly into the press office, picked up the baggage, thanked Mrs. Stevens for a "lovely performance" and said good night.

The taxi cab moved away from the front of the theatre. Shortly thereafter the lights went out except for a slant of illumination from the room upstairs.

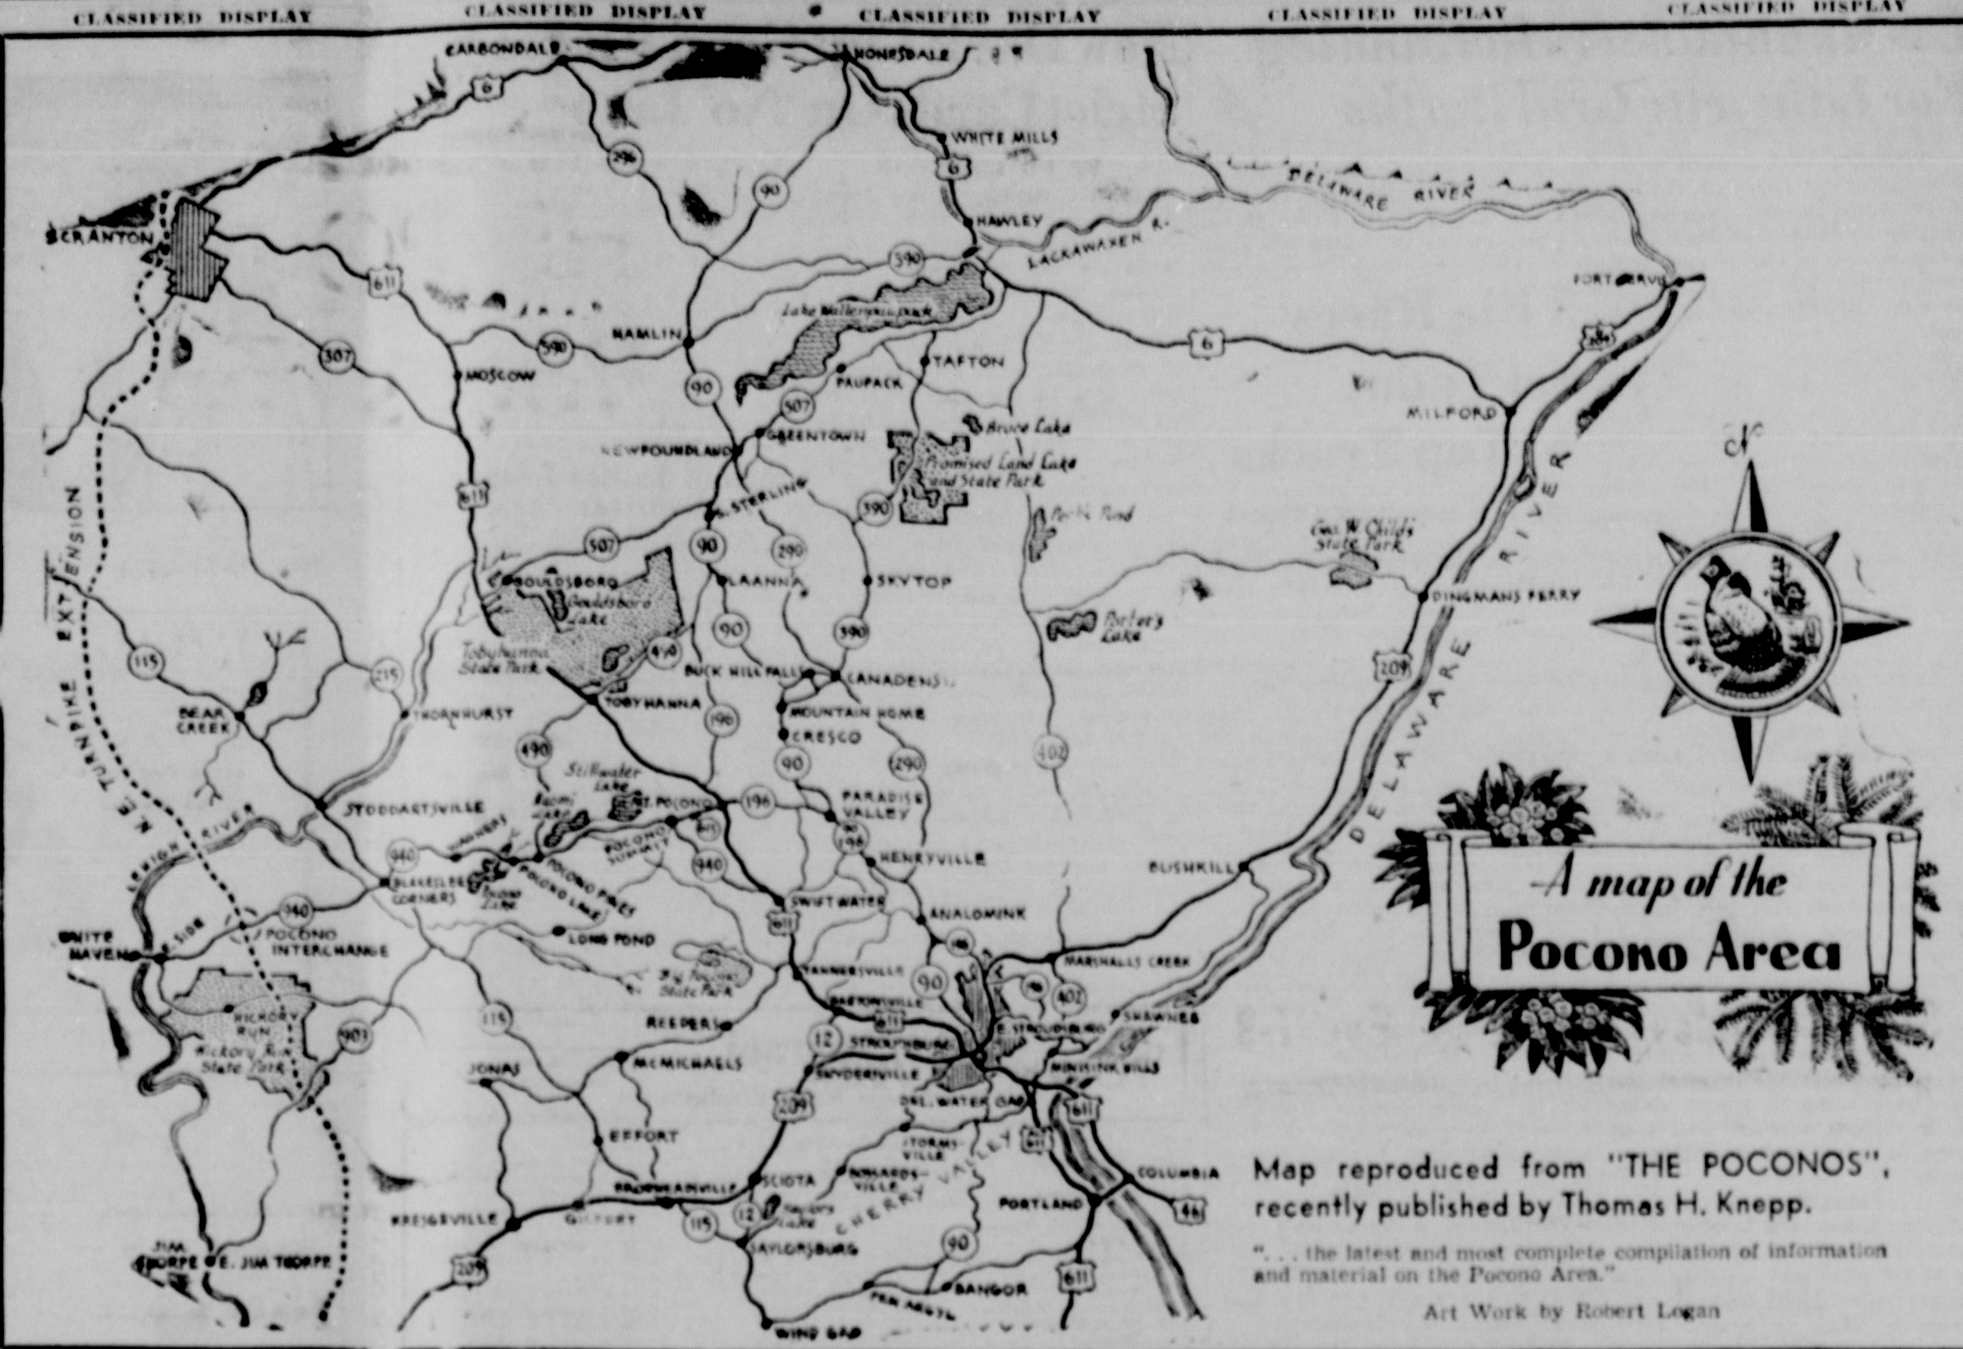

From backstage came the sound of a young man's voice, a little arch and clipped, in an imitation of Noel Coward.

It was an imitation you could hear in almost any theatre in the world at one time or another during the course of a normal year.

But the real Mr. Coward had just given a fairly final demonstration of the fact that there is only one Mr. Coward.

The young man backstage was adding evidence to another unavoidable fact: That the powerful imprint of personality (and talent) can often be gauged by the gross inability of any person to imitate it effectively.

And by the magnetized armies of caricaturists who are compelled to try it anyway.

Auto Tour To The Northern Poconos

FROM STROUDSBURG, home of Col. Jacob Stroud, who founded the town in 1776 drive along Main St. to 5th St., then turn left onto Route 90 N. To the left, after driving three and one-half miles is the Coral Reef of Pennsylvania, geological evidence that at one time this part of Pennsylvania was under the ocean. Continue across the D&W railway tracks into the little village of Ansonia, and along the Broadheads Creek.

The flood waters last August washed away some bridges, property and homes in this area, but there are new scenic spots and new trout pools, and the stream is now clearly visible from the highway where once it was all hidden by overgrowth. In good American tradition, the Poconos have cleared away most of the rubble and blots, and have used the year of the flood as the start of an even better vacationland.

Turn right onto Route 290 continuing northward and continue into the village of Canadensis, a pivotal point of the Poconos. Then turn right onto PA 300 N. As you turn up the long hill you pass the golf course and entrance to the exclusive Skytop Club, clubhouse for many winter sports stories. The hotel is visible across the lake on the left.

As you continue past the lake you reach the edge of the Pocono Plateau coming into Pike County, of which 89 per cent is estimated to be forestland. Turn right still on 300 N. and continue into the grounds of Promised Land State Park, maintained by the State of Pennsylvania's Department of Forests and Waters. Fairview Lake is on your left as you continue your climb up 300 N. At the Route 507 junction turn right and you're driving along the shore of Lake Wallenpaupack, the largest man-made lake and body of water in the state of Pennsylvania. The lake was created for hydro-electric purposes, and once supplied much of the ice used in the area. It is now the fastest growing recreational center in the Poconos.

Junction with U. S. 6 turning left on U. S. 6 W. (Decker Marsh, the Game Commission's waterfowl refuge may be reached by a right turn here, a drive of one mile). Wilsonville is the town containing the dam that impounds Lake Wallenpaupack. Two miles beyond Wilsonville is Hawley, a town developed largely by the Pennsylvania Coal Company's gravity railroad. No locomotives were used on this railroad, but the cars were pulled up an incline by stationary engines and then ran downhill on gradual slopes. (500 right, 17 miles past the village leads into Lackawaxen village where the oldest suspension bridge in the world is still in use).

White Mills, the next village you reach, was named for its many saw-mills, which were white-washed. Dorfing Glass Museum is located in the town. Two miles beyond is Indian Orchard, created by Indians, one of the old Dorfing glass cutters lives along the roadside. Honesdale, one of the largest coal markets in the world at one time, is four miles beyond. From Honesdale continue onto U. S. 6 W. where the Stroudbridge Lion, the first locomotive to be run in America is reproduced in replica. Then return back to Honesdale.

Turn right on U. S. 6 and PA 50 and take Route 90 South of town and into the village of Lake Ariel. From here you pass Hamlin, driving three miles south on the old North and South Pike, one of the earliest roads in Northeastern Pennsylvania. From Newfoundland you continue onto South Sterling then turn right onto PA 490 continuing on it past the enormous Tobyhanna Army Signal Depot. Then into the village of Tobyhanna where you turn left onto U. S. 611 S. Mount Pocono, a vacation village leads you into Swiftwater. (You pass the road leading to Pocono Knob, a scenic outlook, as you reach the outskirts of Mt. Pocono. Swiftwater is the home of the National Drug Company, the only place in America where yellow fever serum is produced. Tannersville, a stopping place of the Sullivan Army leads you into Bartonsville, and then back into Stroudsburg. Total mileage: Approximately 100 miles.

Playhouse To Close Season

POCONO Playhouse closes its tenth successful season of summer theatre in the Poconos next week with the production of "House in the Country." But the resorts, restaurants, and businesses that bring this weekly tour guide will find themselves busied through the Fall as local residents take advantage of the more leisureed activity to dine out for a treat; as city-dwellers back at their regular routine take a week-end drive to the conveniently located Poconos to enjoy the changing foliage; as honeymooners start arriving in greater frequency; and as hunting parties move into the favored Pocono Game Lands. Fall has become one of the most popular of all seasons of the year in this year-around pleasure area... why don't you make plans to enjoy the facilities here during the next few weeks?

Viewing the Screens

A NEW PROGRAM bows at 9:30 p. m. on Chs. 2 and 10 and stars Jeannie Carson and Allen Jenkins. Tonight's episode of "Hey, Jeannie," tells how the pet Scottish immigrant lass gets involved in the great American pastime, baseball.

At 10:30 p. m. it will be difficult to decide whether to watch the return of Your Hit Parade on Chs. 3 and 4 or the Miss America Pageant on Chs. 6 and 7. Both will be pleasing to the eye and well worth tuning in.

Sunday Highlights

Joseph Cotten plays the starring role in a dramatic story of World War II, "H.M.S. Marlborough" on Ch. 2 and 10 at 9 p. m. On their way home for Christmas, the Marlborough is torpedoed and many of the men killed or wounded. Individually, the survivors prove their loyalty and courage and manage to put up a plucky fight.

Also at 9 p. m. on Ch. 6 and 7 Ted Mack presents the National Amateur Talent Championship from Madison Square Garden. Contending in the finals are past contestants of "The Original Amateur Hour" who have qualified by winning three times.

Sports

Baseball—1:30 p. m. on Ch. 6, Phillies vs. Pittsburgh;
1:55 p. m. on Ch. 9, Brooklyn Dodgers vs. N. Y. Giants.
1:55 p. m. on Ch. 11, N. Y. Yankees vs. Wash. Senators.
Tennis—2 p. m. on Ch. 3 and 4—National Singles semi-finals from Forest Hills, N. Y.

Sunday
Baseball—1:55 p. m. on Ch. 9, Brooklyn Dodgers vs. N. Y. Giants.
1:55 p. m. on Ch. 11, N. Y. Yankees vs. Washington Senators.
Tennis—2 p. m. on Ch. 3 and 4, finals of the National Singles from Forest Hills, N. Y.

Football—3 p. m. on Ch. 2 and 10, Philadelphia Eagles vs. Baltimore Colts, from Louisville, Ky.
Bowling from Chicago at 10:30 p. m. on Ch. 4.

Summer Theatre

At the Pocono Playhouse, "The Spa," with Gloria Vanderbilt and Turhan Bey.

Current Movies

At the Sherman Theater today will be "Francis in the Haunted House" and starting Sunday will be "Earth vs. The Flying Saucers" and "The Werewolf."

At the Grand Theatre today will be "The Burning Hills" and starting Sunday "Lisbon" with Ray Milland and Maureen O'Hara.

Blue-Ridge Drive-In — "Red Sundown" and "The Killer is Loose."
Pocono Drive-In — "Cockleshell Heroes" and "Back to God's Country."

Scranton Lawyer Dies

SCRANTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Alphonse L. Casey, 62, solicitor of the Scranton school board and prominent attorney in the northeastern Pennsylvania area, died yesterday in Mercy Hospital.

GUNS!

Just three and one-half years old, this house is ready for immediate sale! Owner has been transferred out of state.

On Berwick Heights Road, one of the most desirable locations in the area, this house is compact, comfortable . . . away from traffic and noise and is in a settled neighborhood.

The setting is beautiful. The house nestles in a group of trees and is on a lot 120 feet frontage and 150 feet deep.

As you enter the house you come into the large living room. At one end is a picture window which gives you a magnificent view. At the other end you'll see an attractive fireplace. Then the dining space which is separated from the living room with a small trellis-effect.

The kitchen is one of the most modern. Wall and floor cabinets are ample. There's an automatic dishwasher in the sink, a breakfast bar and a mighty good Westinghouse electric range is part of the kitchen equipment.

Adjoining the kitchen is the utility room where the oil fired forced hot air furnace is located. Also an 80 gallon electric water heater and double laundry tubs.

There are three good size bedrooms. Each of them have large closets with sliding doors.

An attractive bathroom is equipped with pale green fixtures, shower and tiled walls.

The living room, dining space and hall floors are covered with the best kind of wall to wall carpet. The attractive drapes go with the house too.

There's a garage next to the house. A nice terrace in the rear of the house and one in the front. Both are connected with a walk all around the house.

This Property, fully landscaped, ready for luxurious living is being offered at a great deal less than its replacement cost. Why not call us and find out about it?

Tillich To Appear Before Committee

ERNST TILICH, director of the largest resistance organization behind the Soviet Iron Curtain, will arrive in Washington today for consultation with the Committee on Un-American Activities.

Tillich is scheduled to testify publicly on Monday and Tuesday as the first of a series of witnesses whom the Committee is planning to bring from various critical areas of the world to obtain information on international Communist strategy and tactics.

Tillich heads the Fighting Group Against Inhumanity, an underground organization operating in the Soviet Zone of Germany and Eastern Berlin. The Fighting Group distributes resistance newspapers and pamphlets in the Soviet areas and aids in facilitating the escape of political fugitives.

Price
The Soviets have placed a price of DM 10,000 for the capture of Tillich and several attempts have been made by Soviet agents to kidnap him from the American sector of Berlin where the Fighting Group maintains its headquarters.

Tillich is expected to provide significant information about Soviet strategy since the 20th Congress of the Soviet Communist Party; about the militarization of Eastern Germany and the establishment of East German armed forces and their integration into the Soviet bloc military machine; and about the slave labor camps in which tens of thousands of East Germans are still being confined for opposition to the police regime under which they live.

The Committee originally invited both Tillich and Johannes Stumm, Chief of the West Berlin Police, to come to Washington. Stumm has informed the Committee that he will be unable to come because of previous commitments and has arranged for Tillich to testify for him on the subjects that the Committee had planned to question him about.

Tillich is scheduled to arrive at 8 a.m. at the MATS terminal at National Airport and will be available for photographs.

Bartonsville

Mrs. Robert Field
Phone 3587-J-3

Anita Learn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Learn, recently celebrated her 12th birthday.

Joan Spragle, Beverly Hartman and Gary Dotter were among the local young folks who received prizes in the homemaking and vocational agriculture exhibits at the West End Fair.

Mary Metzgar of Arlington Heights, was the Monday overnight guest of Donna Hartman.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Price of Hattboro, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hartman.

Miss Eleanor Soeth, of The Bronx, New York, was the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spragle and daughter Joan. On Sunday the Spragles and Miss Soeth motored to Hamburg where they visited "Roadside America."

Members and leaders of the Bartonsville 4-H Club attended the countywide round-up held at the Saylorburg fire hall. Bartonsville was the only club with cooking for its project and all members did exceptionally well with all girls, including junior member Donna Hartman, receiving blue ribbons for the food they exhibited.

The club was given a certificate with a gold seal. Members of the local group were Elaine Erickson, Kathryn Walters, Linda Kane, Sharon Canfield, Carol Teada, Sandra Fetherman and Donna Hartman. Leaders present were Mrs. Donald Hartman and Mrs. William Fetherman.

Joan Spragle spent several days visiting Jane Law of Tannersville.

Miss Keturah Garrecht, of Bergenfield, N. J., spent the Labor Day weekend with her sister, Mrs. Emma Metzgar, of Arlington Heights and called on Bartonsville relatives.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED—Stroudsburg's Borough Secretary Harold E. Snyder looks over the Borough Council minutes for 1855, written in the beautiful hand of one of his predecessors. The little old timer contains the minutes for a six year period, while the first entries in the new one at the left were made in July, 1955, and the book is expected to be filled by next July — which all goes to prove that government is getting more complex all the time. (Staff Photo By MacLeod)

Plenty Of Progress Since 1855 Days

By Paul Carlson
AH, FOR THE good old days of the nickel beer and low taxes! Take 1855, for example, when Stroudsburg's tax duplicate was $641.23—rather than the current $106,000.

The microscopic tax duplicate of a century ago was discovered in the dusty—but well-preserved—minute book containing a record of the Stroudsburg council sessions for 1855.

Borough Secretary Harold E. Snyder looked over the old records recently and found that only one minute book, covering a period during the Civil War, is missing. On file are records from 1855 to the present.

Ironically, the Fire Department is missing its records for the same period covered in the missing council minute book.

Pay Vouchers
Snyder also uncovered some old pay vouchers which indicate that maybe it's just as well if we don't have "the good old days" again.

For example, in 1916 the chief burgess received $50 a year, while the monthly salary of the borough secretary was $15.

That same year, the chief of police received $70 a month—$20 more than the streets superintendent. However, four years later, the chief was still only getting $80 a month—or $10 less than the superintendent of streets.

Although the council minutes go back a century, it wasn't until 1896 that the first ordinance was entered in a Spencerian script.

In 1907, the somewhat renowned "Old Hog Ordinance" was adopted. This forward-looking measure provided that residents couldn't raise hogs and other livestock from Fourth St. to Scott, then west to the Pocono Creek, and in a southerly direction to Ann St.

Such is progress.

Buck's County Court Denies Miller's Plea For Dismissal

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Bucks County Court today told counsel for Alexander R. Miller of Easton, former Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commissioner that arguments to dismiss the state's case against Miller must await grand jury action so that all pretrial objections can be considered at the same time.

The court thus denied a motion by Miller's attorneys to dismiss the case now. President Judge Edward G. Blester and Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite made the ruling.

Miller is one of five former members and employees of the commission charged by the commonwealth with alleged misuse of commission funds. The others are R. Chapman Carver, Ivyland, Pa., former commissioner; Leslie Brown, Trenton, N. J., former chairman; Robert A. Haney, Trenton, former comptroller, assistant treasurer and secretary, and W. Willard Schwab, Levittown, Pa.
